

Immunology Meets Philosophy

Institute of Philosophy, Czech Academy of Sciences
(Academic Conference Centre), Jilská I, Prague

24 October, 2022, Monday

time zone CEST

- 9:30 – 9:45 Martin Zach Institute of Philosophy, Czech Academy of Sciences
Introduction
- 9:45 – 11:00 Mihai Netea Professor of Experimental Medicine, Radboud University Nijmegen Medical Centre
An evolutionary continuum in immune memory
- 11:20 – 12:35 Thomas Pradeu ImmunoConcEpT lab, CNRS & University of Bordeaux
Extended immunity and its consequence for cancer
- Lunch break
- 14:00 – 15:15 Michaela Tencerova Institute of Physiology, Czech Academy of Sciences
Obesity at the crossroad between immune and metabolic system
- 15:35 – 16:50 Miguel Soares Inflammation Lab, Instituto Gulbenkian de Ciência Metabolic reprogramming as a defense strategy against infection
- 17:10 – 18:25 Sophie Veigl Institute of Philosophy, University of Vienna
Is the biotic/abiotic distinction operational in immunology?

25 October, 2022, Tuesday

time zone CEST

- 9:30 – 10:45 Judith Allen Professor of Immunobiology, University of Manchester
When inflammation is anti-inflammatory - the type 2 immune response and tissue repair
- 11:00 – 12:15 Dominik Filipp Institute of Molecular Genetics, Czech Academy of Sciences
Toll-like receptors: a matter of defense?
- Lunch break
- 13:45 – 15:00 Bartłomiej Swiatczak Department of History of Science and Scientific Archeology, University of Science and Technology of China
Philosophy of immunology: Mapping the nascent field
- 15:10 – 16:10 panel discussion